

Dear Sir or Madame.

I am sadly surprised by the un-American standards by which the Sinclair people play. The idea of fair play and true competition of opposing values should be components of a political campaign not the spewing of propaganda. We need to think of the young people who will inherit this country and the American values for which my father and uncle (WW II vets), and my brother-in-law (Vietnam vet) fought for the survival. Please consider the assault that this seems to be on our American way of being and use your powers to stop this.

Sincerely.

John Milward
